

TrickBot banking Trojan targets UK users

The TrickBot banking Trojan, one of the most persistent threats in 2020, is targeting users from the UK with geofenced malicious spam.

The subject lines of the current wave of spam emails include prices for various products and solutions.

The price quoted in the email body is intentionally vague in order to lure the recipient into opening the attachment: a malicious XLS document, embedded with macro code, that is used to download TrickBot.
